

We realize our patients and their family members may need additional support throughout this uncertain time as we navigate through what the COVID-19 pandemic may bring. Fear of the unknown and grief due to loss of normality is weighing heavily on most everyone.

The grief and loss we are all experiencing are compounded for those facing the end of life decision making. Patients with life-limiting illnesses and their loved ones experience grief as they journey through their disease process and may now experience more complicated grief due to the uncertainty of our times right now.

Hospice provides spiritual and psychosocial support in addition to medical care, and our services are essential for patients and their families, now more than ever. Hospice exists to improve patients and their loved one's quality of life by helping them process their journey and provide the support needed in all aspects of their care.

Please keep in mind that our Grief and Bereavement services are available to all in our community, whether Hospice has touched them or not.

Bonner General Health's Community Hospice is here to support all of your patient's end of life needs.

Thank you for allowing us to partner with you to meet your patients' care needs right at home.
